William A. Manis, who had nomination papers to enter the race for city clerk, announced Tuesday that he was forced to withdraw on his doctor's orders. Manis, an accountant collector for the city finance officer, has been retired from the Los Angeles Police Department with a permanent disability as the result of a motorbike accident. Recurring trouble with his injury has forced him to withdraw from the city clerk's contest, friends said.

In a statement issued Tuesday, Manis said he wished to thank his many friends and well-wishers, and "urge that they do not forget to vote for the candidate of their choice on election day, April 10."

Although his candidacy is being withdrawn, his name will appear on the ballot.

College To Issue Calendar

Newest publication for community distribution to be prepared by El Camino College is a monthly calendar of events through which residents of the college district may be informed of campus activities.

The calendar includes information regarding athletic events, lectures, theater arts, and musical productions, fine arts and technical arts exhibits, community services, and divisional programs open to the public.

It also provides news on publications and presentations by the ECC faculty.

A schedule outlining activities from March 15 to April 15 is now in preparation.

Residents of the El Camino College district interested in receiving the calendar of events may send their name and address to the Office of Public Relations, El Camino College, El Camino College, California.

Those currently receiving the ECC Report and other publications will be automatic recipients of the calendar, which is prepared by journalism student Geraldine Bender in conjunction with her work in the college press bureau class.

North Torrance Lions to Hear Braille Speaker

Jack Whiffen will be the guest speaker at the March 6 meeting of the Torrance Lions Club.

Whiffen, representing the Braille Institute of America located at 741 N. Vermont Ave. in Los Angeles, is a member of the Venice Lions Club. He will tell how blind people can receive training at the institute which helps them to adjust to active and independent lives in spite of their lack of sight. Whiffen is himself blind.

Hogue indicated he would campaign on the platform that planning "of our city has been atrocious." He calls for a uniform plan to guide commissioners, acceleration of land acquisition for recreation areas, and encouragement of industrial development at a greater pace.

J. A. Beasley opened his reelection campaign this week by declaring the city's most outstanding need is for a new municipal auditorium.

Beasley said it was a shame that a city of this size "can continue to be so delinquent in its cultural advancement." He pointed out the city had no facilities for a chamber music concert, "let alone a major symphony." He said stage productions give Torrance the absent treatment, adding "we don't even get travelogs."

Beasley served four years on the Planning Commission and a similar term on the Recreation Commission, and said he would continue to make the construction of an auditorium his No. 1 project.

Beasley also is president of the Inter-City Highway Committee and has been active in recent years in accelerating plans for the San Diego Freeway, making several appearances before the State Highway Commission in Sacramento.

A reception for all candidates for city offices has been scheduled for Saturday evening at 7:30 in the Higgins Brick Patio, 2217 W. Artesia, by Charles Deck, candidate for the city clerk's office. Mrs. Leonard Radford has been named entertainment chairman for the event by Deck. Snacks and refreshments will be provided Deck said. In addition to local candidates, Deck has issued an invitation to candidates and civic leaders from adjacent cities, he said. Deck has made extensive use of a mailed brochure to attract attention to the affair.

Candidate John Barton opened his city council campaign Sunday with a campaign kick-off in his offices at 2008 Carson St. Steering committee for the event included Chairman Pete Millar, Harmon Belcher, Martha Armstrong, Margaret Clark, Medy Fink, and Bernard F. Stevens.

In an opening campaign statement, Barton said he would hit hard on the spot-zoning which he says has been going on "in this city to the detriment of homeowners." He said "the tremendous pressures being placed on homeowners by apartment construction must be challenged and defeated."

He called for a homeowners' study group to formulate a master plan, homeowners' representatives on planning commission, and ordinance changes.
